Susan Davis Faulkner

of Kennewick, Washington

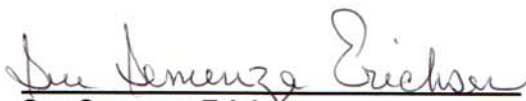

for exceptional leadership and consistent support of the goals and operation of the Tri-City Genealogical Society

Susan Faulkner (L) and Janet McKinnon (R)

As the Tri-City Genealogical Society President for the 2010-2012 term, Susan Faulkner has performed many tasks that helped to support the Society's mission and broaden an understanding of genealogy. At her suggestion and under her leadership the annual Washington State Genealogical Society state conference was held in the Tri-Cities in September 2011. Working closely with Janet McKinnon, the Society's vice president and program chair, Susan helped resolve problems quickly and without fuss, ensuring the state conference ran smoothly and was a major success. Susan still found time during her term as president to give informative presentations to Society members and traveled to other societies through out the state to give these educational programs. Susan also wrote numerous articles and provided historical records for the Society's Bulletin, and participated in school census indexing projects. We are grateful to Susan Faulkner for her skillful leadership and devoted service.

Given this 8th day of September in the year 2012, at the annual meeting of the Washington State Genealogical Society at Port Angeles, Washington.
